Admiral Stansfield Turner
Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Admiral Turner:

Executive Order 12196, Occupational Safety and Health for Federal Employees, becomes effective on October 1, 1980. It requires the Secretary of Labor to issue, with OMB approval and in consultation with the Federal Advisory Council on Occupational Safety and Health, a set of basic program elements to help agency heads operate effective programs to protect their workers from job hazards. The Secretary of Labor submitted for OMB approval a set of proposed basic program elements which the OMB Associate Director for Human Resources, Veterans and Labor, Gilbert S. Omenn, sent to you with a request for comments last month. OMB has received two additional sections of the draft program elements, enclosed, on which we also request your views.

Again we ask for your prompt attention to the Department of Labor's proposal. Please reply by August 8. If you wish to decline to comment or if you wish to concur in the draft, you may do so by calling Susan O'Hara at 395-3904. Your cooperation is appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

James F. Hinchman
Deputy Associate Director
Labor, Veterans and Education
